

PLEASE READ ALL OF THESE CAREFULLY BEFORE ANSWERING

Which statement would most often and most closely represent your personal attitude towards evangelism: (CIRCLE ONLY ONE)

1. I feel no urging to share my faith: that is not my job as a believer.
2. I am not aware of any command or guideline to discuss my faith with non-believers.
3. Although I am aware of the biblical command to evangelize, I rarely try to do it.
4. I have tried on occasion to talk about my faith with non-believers, but I realized that I lack the skills and information necessary to be effective so I no longer try.
5. I believe that I know many of the answers to the questions non-believers have, but I don't know how to approach non-believers to develop the necessary friendships.
6. I am a good "people person," with many non-believing friends. But my conversations with them rarely turn to spiritual things and when they do I don't have good answers for their questions.
7. I generally know what to say and how to say it but I still struggle with being "always ready" and with finding the courage to start the conversation.
8. I know what to say and how to say it. I actively look for opportunities to discuss my faith with non-believers and am generally successful in having doing so.
9. I take every opportunity I get to talk about God with non-believers and I always do it with gentleness and respect.
10. I take most every opportunity I get to talk about God with non-believers but I realize that sometimes I am heavy handed and I don't always listen well.

Comments: _____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____